

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed is a portable information apparatus, which is provided with a display section capable of displaying a color display and a dynamic display in a high image quality, and which consumes less electricity. When the portable information apparatus of a folder type is in a folded state, a display screen 100 is composed of an image display region and a non-image region, so that at least a part of the image display region can be seen via a transparent section 102.